Windform® XT is a composite material of a new generation, developed and produced by CRP Technology, whose mechanical characteristics make it the excellence and suitable material in Rapid Manufacturing. Matt black coloured compound polyamide and carbon fibres based material with brilliant reflexes, WindForm® XT is the reference point in the market as regards high performances, allowing the manufacturing of finished "ready to use" parts.

That important goal underlines how CRP Technology is focused with success on offering to the international market high-valuable services, high quality standards and new concept products duly protected by specific international patent applications, which, as the one above, are now obtaining the official approval

Thanks to its own R&D department, today CRP Technology can offer a wide range of materials (Windform) that put it among the best qualified and skilled companies of plastic Rapid Manufacturing that is able to create, with regular machine, every kind of prototype also for pre-series or small series.
